MEREDITH MATTERS.

Mr. J. Fred Beede has returned home.

The thermometer registered 114°
Sunday.

J. W. Green is recovering from his recent illness.

According to the late census, there are 1792 inhabitants in town.

Dr. Palmer is now visiting at the home of his father in Jefferson.

Mr. Edward Kendall, formerly of Boston, is at work for D. A. Ambrose.

F. B. Wilson has accepted a position as hair dresser, at the Seater House, Center Harbor.

with J. W. Beede, has accepted a position as clerk with J. H. Knowles & Co.

gallery will be open all day Monday,
and will be prepared to take photographs and tintypes.

quantities of blueberries,
and a leading business in
for many years.

On Saturday evening a Garfield and our flag was thrown to the breeze,
some cheering, while Mechanics devoted excellent music.

Charles S. Chase of this town recent graduate of the New Institute, has accepted a position as clerk for Twist Drill Co.

The Gospel temperance workers,
Messrs. Plaisted, Lang and Mason, met last Sunday in Alton where they have previously held successful meetings.

They were requested to say that if they were the large stone from the street opposite John Choute's house he could confer a favor.

The real estate of the late Geo.
L. Vittum at Ashland, will be sold at auction, July 22, by Hanson Beede, auctioneer. For further particulars see large posters.

The Centennial Jubilee singers gave two of their popular concerts in Town and were greeted with good houses. It consisted of solo melodies, plantation songs and modern music, and was superior in every respect.

Last Tuesday evening the Mechanics' band proceeded to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Brown, and discussed some excellent music, compli-

It is but a short time since a source of annoyance to certain numbers obtaining correct and ready answers to their numerous questions.
enumeration of 218 farmers in town, only one man was prepared to answer all inquiries at once, and the man was Charles S. Bickford, living on Meredith Neck.

Messrs. Morgan & Hathorn have been selling ranges here, from J. & E. Davis, Fall River, for about five weeks, disposing of 80 Clifford ranges, each one giving perfect satisfaction as far as heard working and durability.

We clip the following from the Boston Globe of a recent date:

The manufacturing industries of Meredith Village, N. H., were never in a more prosperous condition than at present. Samuel Hodgson's hosiery mill is running with a full force, 125 hands, and the American Twist Drill have nearly doubled the number employed by them
since locating here.

The oldest person in town is Harrah Gilman. The two next oldest are Mrs. Martha A. Dodge, 91, and Chase Robinson, 90 years.
Mrs. Dodge shows a remarkable interest in public affairs, for one of her age, possessing her faculties to a good degree.

Miss Mamie E. Cram returned home Saturday, from Wollaston, Mass., where she has been attending school.

The manager of this paper has been in Boston this week and purchased a job printing press together with some of the latest styles of type and other material, which will be in operation soon. To our friends and patrons who have so generously aided us in the past, we would tender our thanks, and it will be our endeavor in the future to merit by square dealing and strict attention to business, a liberal share of public patronage.

There was a good attendance at the Gospel temperance meeting Sunday evening. In the absence of J.
H. Plaisted, the president, W. B.
Reynolds presided. Scripture reading by Rev. Mr. Bard, and prayer by Rev. J. Erskine. A few well-chosen opening remarks were made by the president. Those responding when called upon were, Rev. G. I.
Bard, Mrs. Moulton, Mrs. Dearborn,
Mr. Hill, Mr. Moses Cheney, of Vermont, E. Swain, James Bartlett, T.
S. Moses, Mrs. David Cram and
Rev. J. Erskine.

EDITOR EAGLE:
We were pleased to see by an article in one of your first papers, that you were not deceived, as have been many of the temperance papers, by the lofty pretensions of "Hop Bitters." We would like to call the attention of your readers to what an eminent chemist says of them, as given below:

ANALYSIS.
Mrs. NEWELL CLARK, Chem. W. C. T. U.:
The sealed sample of Hop Bitters—
Hop Bitters Mfg Co., Rochester, N. Y.—
which you brought to me for analysis on May 1, I have analyzed and find as follows:
Hop Bitter and extractive matter, 0.214
Alcohol (by weight), 14.650
Water, by volume 18 per cent. 85.053
100.000

Respectfully yours,
C. R. FLETCHER,
State Assayer of Massachusetts.

Less than one-third of one per cent. of extract of Hops. Surely not much foundation for a claim of "Care for Intemperance." "Friend of Intemperance, etc."

Yours, etc.,
BLUE RIBBON.

As soon as he passed the "red water" of the water pipe, in the first district limits, much water from the village, no cases were reported.

THE TRICK REVOLUTIONISTS.

In most of the hill towns of Franklin county, most of the farmers get an average crop of hay where it has been secured. Tobacco raisers will probably earn all they can get for their tobacco, the cost of fighting the drought and keeping down the weeds and worms being about what the price of the weed will be in the market.

The body of Thomas McDonough, a Providence policeman, a victim of the cholera, has been found on Fisher's island.

SOMETHING FOR ALL.

Twenty 3000 years ago Pliney, the naturalist, wrote that amber was the fossil resin of an extinct conifer-bearing tree, and modern science can say but little more of it. The original amber-producing forest probably reached from Holland over the German coast, through Siberia and Kamtschatka, even to North America.

While a person is journeying, for instance, from Boston to New York, some 900 miles, the planet on which he is creeping by steam power has traveled some 410,000 miles through space. Without being physically sensible of it, he has been moving at the rate of 60,000 miles an hour, more than 1000 miles a minute. The planet Mercury is even faster, its speed being 100,000 miles an hour.

By the explosion of a saleratus factory near Newark, N. J., three men have just lost their lives. We are certainly sorry for this calamity, yet if all the saleratus in the country could "disappear," without loss of life, there would be cause for general rejoicing. It has taken more lives in this country than science has ever saved. It has permeated our kitchens, our tables, and our systems, and almost anything is welcome which will banish it from American cookery.

Miss Kate Field has gone to England again, whence she will return in September to fulfill her platform engagements, and to set the Ladies' Dress Association in working order. This says the New York Tribune, already promises to be a great success. The latest accession to the ranks of the association is Mrs. Millard Fillmore, who takes a particular interest in its intentions in regard to American manufactures.

When Mr. Disraeli chose his title, he chose a name of which the local pronunciation is beyond doubt "Beconsfield." Nobody in Buckinghamshire, where this quiet village is situated, ever thinks of pronouncing the word otherwise. But it happened that when the new peer had his first audience of the Queen, her Majesty, in addressing him by his title, pronounced it Beconsfield. From that moment local usage and immemorial custom went for nothing. Lord Beconsfield gave it to be understood that her Majesty had settled the matter once for all. He was too good a courtier to dispute the royal orthodoxy.

FASHION NOTES.

Much of the yellow-white lace is dyed. The Jersey is the accepted lawn tennis dress.

Embroidery supercedes lace on graduating gowns.

Cotton gloves are sold for hile thread in cheap shops.

Still another lace has come. It is simple footing with tiny dots.

Hats worn with pongee traveling suits are trimmed with pounce.

A new kind of embroidery is even cheaper than Hamburg edging.

Red water-proof ulsters are worn with yachting dresses in England.

Muslin dresses in solid colors are to be much worn at the watering places.

Belts to wear with thin dresses have loops hanging both in front and at the back.

Japanese ribbons printed on both sides are good substitutes for hand-painted sashes.

It is because silk underwear is healthy, not because it is fashionable, that ladies wear it.

Muslins, calicos and gingham have all decreased in price since the beginning of the season.

No undue wrap is required with a figured basque, when it is worn with a skirt of another material.

Elbow caps of silk, having hoods lined with bright silk, are prettier than either bead or lace caps.

The lightest of ferns and full blown flowers are worn in the hair in preference to any other decoration.

Blouse waists of Surah, with sailor collars and turned up cuffs, are worn with sashes finished with tassels.

Triangles of Indian mull with dots of black, blue or pink, are worn as kerchiefs with street dresses.

Jet-embroidered Surah dresses bright edged by folds of bright silk set under the edges of the basque are new.

Cheap white silk blouses are made in Languedoc patterns, and are used both for trimmings and for neck wear.

Alpaca undershirts for out-of-town wear have three plaatings, two of alpaca and one of bright-colored satin.

Linon ticking is used by ladies who like a cool costume, and talley cloth by those who want something new.

The straw cuffs that are made into hanging baskets furnish good patterns for the stiff cuffs worn with light sleeves.

White chuddah cloth dresses are rather more expensive than hunting and nun's veiling, but they are far more elegant.

Moreen is made into bathing suits this summer, and anything uglier or more uncomfortable it would be impossible to imagine.

The proper way to remodel an old cashmere dress now-a-days is to brighten it by bands of bright Surah set between its plaits.

Woolen mountain suits are trimmed with a skirt sash made of the same material as the dress, and bordered in South Kensington work.

Muslin dresses are made with something like the old fashioned surplised waists, but are gathered instead of plaited on the shoulder.

Annaberg, Saxony, is the place where come most of the tringes and silk trimmings, but a great deal is made to order in all the large cities.

The prettiest morning sacques are made with fitted backs and loose fronts, with satin belts. They are made of Surah lined with silk.

Riding habits are made with a basque at the back and a point in front. High, stiff hats are worn in the city, but melon-shaped hats and veils in the country.

The French dress-makers have taken a fancy to ball dresses with very high necks, but with next to no sleeves. The effect of these gowns is simply absurd.

New York dressmakers charge more for making dresses since shirring came in, but Boston dressmakers have not yet raised their prices except on special orders.

Black satin very thickly strewn with white polka dots, is used to trim black Surah gowns. It composes the collar, pockets and cuffs, and makes panels on the skirts.

It often requires three pieces of handkerchief foulard to make a gown. Sweet simplicity seems to delay a little, in spite of repeated announcements of her coming.

The old, old fashion of slipping a ribbon in and out between the strands of a straw bonnet is revived this year, and some of the very prettiest Tuscans are tied down by the ribbon arranged in this way, and have no other trimming except a wreath of flowers.
